LESLIE L. CLEVELAND

To him who, for the last four happy years, has guided our labors with a sure and wise hand, we give the greatest and the best tribute. It has taken a long time for us to get acquainted with our beloved Principal; but now, as the close of our High School life draws near, we have learned to admire and to appreciate his sterling worth, to love him for his sympathy and understanding of youth as well as for his wisdom in dealing with his own pupils. His unwavering principle of fairness convinces us of his basic fineness. From him we have learned many lessons not connected with the School curriculum, lessons which we will remember long after others have faded into nothingness.

We regret having to leave his control; we envy those who through the years will come under his guidance; we hope for him the happiness and success which he has given us.

Dedication

*In manifestation of our heartfelt regard toward him who more than any other has inspired within us a lasting love for our School
we, the class of 1928
dedicate this Year Book*

Three years ago, the position of Librarian was created in our School, and, in recognition of her special aptitude for such work, Miss Lawson was asked to fill it.

How jealously she guarded the treasures entrusted to her care, that all might benefit by them! That a book should be lost or mutilated seemed a real calamity to her; and, thanks to her vigilance, such accidents became very rare.

To arouse interest in pupils little given to reading, she bought illustrated magazines on home-making and machinery; newspaper clippings, pictures of public men, postal cards, challenged their attention. There were always flowers on the reading table, and on her desk. Her aim was to make the library a vital factor in the life of the School, and one had only to stop at her door to realize how fully she accomplished that purpose.

Patient and sympathetic, she gave kindly welcome to everyone who looked for information; she did not tell him facts, she taught him how to find them for himself; and placed at his disposal every benefit she had ever enjoyed in broad culture and extensive travel in the United States and foreign countries. So, day by day, giving herself generously to her work, she found in it her greatest joy and inspiration.

Then, quite suddenly, after a very short illness, she died. Her work with us, and her life, singularly happy and rich in accomplishment, had come to an end.

The School has lost a loyal friend, but she has left to it a cherished memory of loving service, and countless evidences of that infinitely fine thing which men call "character."

HAVING heard from earlier voyagers to the Western Lands about the inexhaustible treasures there to be found, we coveted this wealth for ourselves. Dazzled by its lure, ignorant and inexperienced, we dared to set out in quest of its gifts. Improvidently we ventured forth without having ascertained the necessary requirements, and without having procured sufficient supplies for our long and tortuous journey. Knowing naught of wisdom, we each held as our aim, gold, that metal gold with which we fondly believed we could obtain all the genuine wealth of life. Our eyes ever turning toward the distant horizon, our hearts ever yearning for the distant goal, we pushed on through the sufferings, toils, and hardships which everywhere beset us in our path. Our desires were purified of dross in the furnace of endurance and became as the liquid gold which we saw every evening in that western sky of the setting sun. At last we were able to distinguish that happiness consists of contentment in our chosen vocation, not in riches bought at the price of honor. Some, through frailty or lack of perseverance, dropped out, one by one, thinning our ranks so that we who arrived were all of the character of hardened pioneers. How we labored and struggled, how we laughed and wept, is the mission of the legend of "Fortune's Trail."

MR. THOMAS LONG BRAMHALL
ASSISTANT HEAD MASTER

After strangers have learned of Mr. Bramhall's tact, good humor, unfailing friendship, and fine character, it is very like a shock to find that this genial master is a learned exponent of such a dry subject as mathematics. Solid geometry, algebra, and trigonometry fall before his onslaught. Sometimes we wonder if his ever-smiling treatment is not the magic that unties those knotty problems.

Then, finally, as the highest tribute we can pay to a teacher—he does not super-impose "trick" tests at inopportune times.

The kind, serious adviser of the yearlings. Always we received a square deal under the splendid leader of our initial year in this High School. Through all that strange and all-important year which most of us recall as one of the happiest of our School life, it was he, the Master of Freshman, who guided us with a firm and understanding hand. We shall not forget Mr. Downey who, as we can now appreciate, planned so carefully for us in that first year when, dazed and inexperienced, we found ourselves in what was for us unexplored territory, High School life.

MR. TIMOTHY F. DOWNEY

MISS ETHEL G. McELROY
DEAN OF SENIOR GIRLS

Ethel G. McElroy.

Who could be more suitable to smooth over or dissolve the many troubles of a throng of Senior girls? Somehow her unfailing courtesy and friendly charm make momentary difficulties seem petty and small. Her poise is enviable; gentleness is her greatest asset. Besides such qualities, Miss McElroy has an unexcelled facility for making her English classes enjoyable. To write themes for her is a pleasure, because we enjoy the individual comments ever forthcoming from her fertile mind.

Her cheery smile was a bright spot in our Junior Year. Before we had any dealings with her concerning tardiness or other unpleasant affairs, we felt that she would be not too severe; that while she would exact the required penalty, she would do it in a manner which we could not resent. And so it proved to be. She has the delightful faculty of becoming intimate with her pupils.

She, too, is among the long list of friends whom we have made since entering High School.

MISS ELIZABETH M. DRISCOLL
DEAN OF SOPHOMORE GIRLS

Have you ever been a member of one of her Latin classes? If not, your education is incomplete, for certainly there is no experience quite like it. Her lectures are as original as her vocabulary is picturesque and expressive. Besides being amusing, they are extraordinarily effective.

Miss Driscoll's charm of personality has taken a place in our hearts which will ever remain as a memory to us of her who was our sincere sympathizer, our true friend.

E. M. Driscoll

Among the faculty, there is one woman who, as soon as we entered School, became for us a sort of idol, a kind of goddess. She seemed rather remote, but infinitely admirable. She reassured bewildered parents and managed rebellious students efficiently. Somehow she seemed to know each pupil's activities, a characteristic which added a personal touch to her conferences. There could be no finer character to mold the freshman girls than that of Miss Russell.

DEAN OF FRESHMAN GIRLS

CHESTER BLISS
MASTER

A man of mighty thoughts, an exponent of world politics, a greatly liked master, that is Mr. Bliss. His comprehension of history, and of current events he has transmitted to us by most lucid expositions. In his dealings with indifferent students he displays keenness of insight. His adroitness at character reading is another of his many endowments. Above all else, though, we appreciated his unpretentious manner, which caused us to have the utmost confidence in him.

As one learns to know Mr. Cain one finds that he is not the average sort; he is quick witted, intelligent, capable of giving sound advice, and possesses a good sense of humor. Those who have had dealings with him at School realize that they have come in contact with a man of sound principles. He is always ready to give advice to those who need it. Those who deserve his praise attain it, and those who merit punishment receive it from him.

MR. GEORGE H. CAIN
HEADMASTER'S ASSISTANT

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

MISS ANNA P. BUTLER
HEADMASTER'S ASSISTANT

We unanimously extend to her the sincere admiration due to her extensive knowledge of our own English language, a subject both difficult and involved. She has bestowed on us a gift which we shall carry to our graves, the love of poetry, which she possesses in so great a measure. Her dry humor, her frankness and honesty have created in us a respect and an affection for her, as well as for the virtues she so well exemplifies.

She has certainly been favored by the gods beyond others. We question whether the gods are just; and this is our grievance. Why should one person have everything; an astute intelligence and a nimble tongue with which to master French and Spanish, the ability to plant those languages in the minds of unappreciative pupils, the golden act of conversation, and last, to spice them all with a bit of human nature, subtle wit and humor? However, since we are allowed to participate in her gifts and to reap the benefit of them, we will forgive the gods and submit to the inevitable.

MISS HENRIETTA E. McINTIRE
HEADMASTER'S ASSISTANT

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

MR. CECIL T. DERRY
MASTER'S ASSISTANT

All of us who have gone through the early stages of "amo, amas" into the trials and tribulations of Caesar, know Mr. Derry. Having known him, we shall always be benefited by his bounteously stocked mind. To talk with him is a source of unique information. His conversation is an unusual treat because of unusual whimsies and expressions. Cicero, Ovid, and Virgil have become almost real through his quaint character sketches. He is delightful in class-room, lecture-hall, or in private conference. We shall remember him not in one of these roles, but in all three.

We have sometimes thought her cold and removed; but after knowing her, we realize that she is, in truth, deeply sympathetic, that one of her chief interests is our welfare. As a teacher of Latin and German, she is extraordinarily adept; but not only for this will we, in later years, remember her with much gratitude. Her untiring efforts to make a success of our School paper, her generous and wise advice with regard to the Year Book have endeared her to us as a teacher, adviser, and friend.

MISS LILLIAN R. HARTIGAN

Lillian R. Hartigan.

Everyone has noticed the remarkable improvement in the Latin School lunch room this past year. For this alone we owe Miss Harrington a perpetual vote of gratitude. Nobody would object to sampling the luscious food that the cooking classes produce under her direction. Her home economics club will testify to that, as well as to her cheery goodfellowship. School would be, after all, a rather dismal place without her sunny smile. If ever it is decided to add to the list of the Muses, we undoubtedly would advocate that Miss Harrington be installed as the white clad patroness of the culinary arts. Do you not agree?

When we, as sophomores, first gained the privilege of studying elocution and of becoming acquainted with Miss Hartigan, we were overawed by the power of her voice. "Drastic" scarcely would describe her methods of obtaining this very desirable volume from us. As we grew older and less timid, we discovered in her a delightful friend. We never could find opportunity enough to talk to her as we wished. Always there was a laughing, chatting group about her. In Miss Hartigan, more than in any other, did we find a warm, personal friend interested in all we did. Never did she fail to give sensible advice or understanding sympathy. Those who gained her friendship prized it dearly. We can think of no greater pleasure awaiting underclassmen than the privilege of meeting, and knowing Miss Hartigan.

MISS MABEL A. HARRINGTON
HEAD MASTER'S ASSISTANT

Mabel A. Harrington

CAMBRIDGE HIGH &amp; LATIN SCHOOL

MISS MADELEINE L. SLADE
MASTER'S ASSISTANT

Many persons will give of what they have, but not all will give with the generous and bounteous heart of Miss Slade, who not only has made those who were members of her classes indebted to her, but who has showered help and kindness upon those who never met her in the class-room. Ask a pupil what he thinks of her, and the answer you receive will surpass your fondest expectations. We wish that we were able to thank her for the aid she has given to us in the typing of Year Book material. Ever has she been ready to hasten our work at our request, and for the moment to lay aside her own.

MISS HELEN F. MORTON
MASTER'S ASSISTANT

To us poor ones, innocent of all skill in art, the work produced by Miss Morton seems a wonder. We look on in amazement while she goes ahead and accomplishes things. She is unsparing in her efforts successfully to acquit herself of all the duties she undertakes, particularly the extra work done for the general pleasure of the School. We always know that anything supervised by Miss Morton will be done as well as it is possible to be done with the material at hand.

Owing to the lack of room on the page where photographs of the Year Book Staff appear, we were unable to show photographs of the entire staff and their assistants.

THREE gifts from thee, O Mother dear,
Three fragrant buds of rarest hue,
Inspiring us o'er earth's vague mere:—
A tulip drenched in learning's dew,
Minerva's golden chaliced wine,
With lavish hand thou hast bestowed;
And thus, from wisdom's seed divine,
We reap the harvest thou hast sowed.

Thy second gift, another bloom
In life's corsage, a pure ideal,
Came tiny shoots of sweet perfume
By chosen watchers culled with zeal;
The plant to ripeness didst advance
Its flow'r commencing to appear,—
A snowy tip was at thy glance
A lily bright with cradled tear.

Thy choicest boon of friendships true,
A crimson rose with petals blest,
Love's emblem, fragrance ever new,
A flower treasured in our breast:
Throughout our lives its haunting scent
Will be a memory of those
Who gladness to our school days lent
And poignant wrought its final close.

*Barbara Brintnall
Catherine Boucher*

LONG years ago there formed a crystal spring
Far back among the hills;
But not for long was it content to sing
'Midst fields of daffodils.

It sought and found its eager way to wind
Among o'er-hanging trees
And always bore a distant goal in mind
The freedom of the seas.

Now "Onward, ever onward" was its cry
And on it blindly thrust.
"Oh, Ocean, I will reach thee ere I die."
Aye, brooklet, that thou must.

The while it twinkled on, it gathered strength
And met with other streams:
A happy song ran through its growing length
It would attain its dreams!

The silt unloosened by the swirling stream
Soon fell again to earth
And left the limpid waters still to gleam
As pure as at their birth.

Thus, year by year, the shores crept far apart;
The river formed its bed;
And ever as it coursed, its youthful heart
Dreamed glorious days ahead.

That time arrived. There lay the ocean home;
And with a soul-filled sigh
The stream flowed in amid the salty foam
Beneath the sea-gulls cry.

Just as the ocean lay before the stream
Life lies before us all;
Then Onward, Class! Attain thy dearest dream,
Go answer to its call!

Casimir Harris

I

BUT four fleeting years ago, we arrived in battle array at the portals of Cambridge High and Latin School, the history of which institution is world knowledge. Being impressed by its solemn and glorious traditions, we resolved that we should not only never omit an opportunity of extolling it to the skies, but should also exert all our powers to add to its fame and its honor. Thus, with much class spirit, we entered upon our interesting career. With a conscientious enthusiasm we threw ourselves into all activities, the boys into basketball, baseball, and track; the girls into the G.A.A., basketball, and swimming. We were old then, quite grown up and matured. We despised anything having a suggestion of a light, vain, or frivolous nature. The one thing in life was education and the honor roll.

II

Ah! we had reached the pinnacle of worldly wisdom; we were sophomores! Still vastly engrossed with intellectual affairs, we felt that now we were fit to give, from our superior knowledge, advice to those who had the misfortune of possessing the appellation of freshmen. This year, perhaps the most uneventful of our career, was spent in the adulation of seniors just as much as in the patronage of freshmen. We looked upon them as kings, lords of the world, gods! And, we fell upon our knees in homage.

III

What a thrill, what exultation and rejoicing! To be an upper classman, a junior! Studies were beginning to loom less formidably before our eyes. They were diminishing in importance. Gradually there began to take their place the faint shadow of coming pleasures. Henceforth we were to enjoy ourselves! It was our privilege and our right. We imitated the seniors, pushed our way, timidly to be sure, into their society, so that we might the better study and ape their manners.

That was the first year our class was organized. We gave the position of President to Fred Hamilton, of Vice-President to William Tierney, of Treasurer to Charles Morris, of Secretary to Rozella Senders. On our pin committee we put Alice Adams, Grace Donovan, Alice Terry, William Sparks, and Harold Tweedy. We elected Robert Dunn, Chairman, Helen Good, Agnes MacIsaac, Ruth Landry and Mary Riese to our Reception Committee into whose hands we confided the success of our Prom, that great event of the year! And it was a success. It was given at the Hemenway Gym on April 22, 1927.

'Twas in this year that we dared first to contend with prospective graduates. A few of our members won places in Prize-Speaking. In fact we ran off with two of the honors, for Harriet Johnson gained first prize among the girls, and George Foley gained Honorable Mention among the boys.

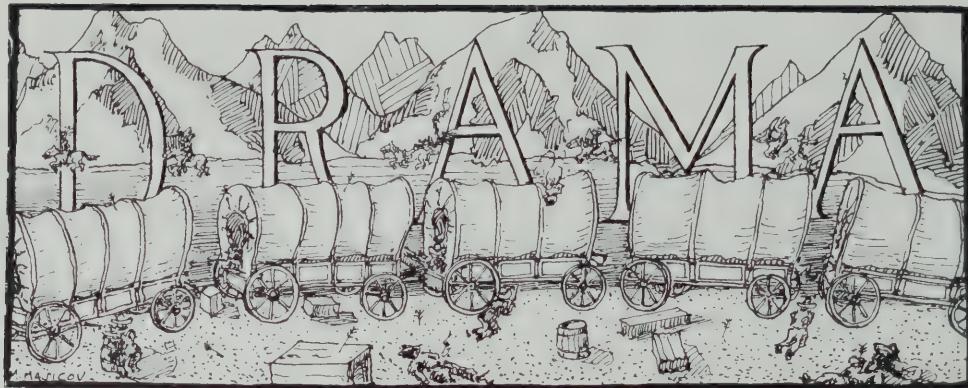

Toward the latter months, we plunged into an orgy of study which ended only with the taking of college boards. With sighs of contentment, we laid aside our books in a spirit of having well-earned our rest.

IV

Seniors! It had come at last! Lords of all we surveyed, with our noses in the air, we meandered through the corridors noisily—pounding our heels, and laughing and chatting gayly over social affairs. We were above the common rabble; even teachers were somehow out of our sphere. With this attitude, we proceeded early to put our class in working order. George Foley was elected president, Alice Adams vice-president, William Tierney treasurer, and Virginia Britt secretary.

We elected William Morris, Chairman, Catherine Boucher, Secretary, Aileen Barrett, Dorothy Harris, Barbara Brintnall, and Bicknell Colesworthy to run our drama, "Barbara Frietchie," and to take charge of the Cast dance, which was given at the Oakley Country Club. And how we enjoyed ourselves!

The room committees elected for the picture committee Madeline Navien, Chairman, Agnes MacIsaac and Helen Good to take in hand the arduous work of getting together the pictures for our Year Book. Then we elected to the all important reception committee Charles Dale, Chairman, Madeline Navien, Helen Good, Ruth Brown, and John Hughes. They ran a Leap Year Party at the Colonial Club, the success of which has been unrivaled. We intend to help the Juniors out with their Prom, and then to attend in full numbers our Reception, the most pretentious affair of our high school life. At present no plans have been formed, but it is certain that the affair will be both successful and enjoyable. Thus in a whirl of gayety ends the tale of our illustrious deeds and merry adventures.

AS a contrast to the modern comedy presented last year, this season's play was unquestionably tragic. One central figure, Barbara Frietchie, has the entire play woven around her. The scenes are laid in the South, during the Civil War. Yankee soldiers are in possession of the heroine's town. In the natural course of events Barbara falls in love with a Yankee officer. When her father forbids her marrying him, she changes her allegiance from the South to the North. An unexpected battle prevents plans for a secret wedding and causes the death of the captain. He is brought, fatally injured, to Barbara's home, where she hides him in her room until he dies. In the disastrous battle the Southern forces have been victorious. Amid the general celebration, following which, Barbara, heart-broken, is watching from a balcony, a jilted lover of hers appears. Crazed by the fighting, he insanely shoots the beautiful girl who he thinks has wronged him. Then the final curtain falls, with the heroine dead upon the balcony.

Obviously a play of this type needed an exceptional leading lady. Yet the unanimous vote is that Madeline Navien far surpassed even this requirement. She was almost a personification in face and attractiveness of the ideal Southern belle. Then, too, her simple dramatic moments were superb.

George Foley played opposite her as the dashing, handsome soldier. His final scene, when he is mortally wounded, was extraordinarily powerful, vivid, and convincing.

Front row; Frances Dennis, Catherine Boucher, George Foley, Madeline Navien, Robert Dunn, Harriet Johnson, Isabel Brooks

A few daubs of makeup, with the addition of a white wig, made Robert Dunn into a typical dignified Southern gentleman. Particularly noticeable, because of their infinite worth, were his poignant and touching scenes with Barbara.

Every girl has a bosom friend, and Barbara had hers in Sue, played by Catherine Boucher. She gave an amusing and human interpretation of the giggling, petulant, frivolous, and lovable Sue.

Fred Hoffman had an opportunity to use his marvelous voice in the serious part of Barbara's brother. Every word that he spoke was tense with deep feeling.

No more charming atmosphere could there have been than that provided by Aileen Barrett and Frances Dennis in their small, but attractive parts as girl friends of Barbara.

We all agree that Paul O'Leary's version of the crazy Jack Negly was tremendous. His maniacal laugh and blood curdling gestures were decidedly expressive.

Harriet Johnson, as the old mammy, and Peter Hayes, as a veteran soldier, had the most attractive character roles. Mammy Lou's dancing and dialect, along with the Colonel's pithy swearing added more than a little to the natural effect of the whole play.

Without doubt, the laurels for comedy go to Bicknell Colesworthy and William Morris. They painted their parts with the greatest of vim and vigor. Gelwex's "Damn the glass" and Tim's responsive "yea-s" will be for years a catch phrase.

John Burns and Charles Dale provided the romantic element. The latter had one really good serious moment with Barbara when he reassured her about her lover's condition.

Isabel Brooks, as the bustling cheery minister's wife; Robert Stone, as "Stonewall Jackson"; and Timothy Crane, as the hardened sergeant, were the remaining characters in speaking parts.

Undoubtedly the greatest share of praise is for Miss Hartigan who, aided by the Drama Committee, was responsible for the quality of the whole production. Under her direction all obstacles were surmounted triumphantly. To conclude, we wish all following classes the great enjoyment and success which we feel we have had this year.

We tender a vote of thanks to Miss Hartigan, Miss Willoughby, Mr. Gomes, Mr. Whoriskey, Alice Guertin, Harriet Johnson, Lillian Duncan, Robert Morris, Kingsley Hooker, John Morris, William Tierney, Homer Thomas, The Cambridge Public Library, The K.B. Club, and the Drama Committee for their invaluable aid, and to the soldiers and girls who were the unpraised but necessary "extras," Barbara Brintnall, Rozella Senders, Russell Anderson, Myles Coates, William Dansie, Harry Dolan, Arthur Gilman, Casimir Harris, John Hughes, John Kileen, Laurence McIsaac, Charles Morris, Humphrey Nolen, Francis O'Connor, Thomas Rafferty, William Welsh, Rolf Wallin. These complete the excellently chosen cast.

SHIPWRECKED: A WESTERN AIRSHIP DISASTER

June 10, 1950—

It was a chill, rainy, and altogether disagreeable morning on which the "Cantabrigia," the largest of a fleet of passenger planes operated by the Robert Stone Aero-transportation Syndicate was forced to land in the midst of what was thought to be an uninhabited wilderness. Our pilot, Al Brigham, admitted himself baffled, and departed in search of suitable burial ground. At this point I bared the innermost cells of my resourceful brain, for I was by no means content to die without first having seen Stuart Lindh's Institution for Bald-Headed Drummers, nor to be buried without the comfort of a Burns steam-heated casket. With such lofty ideals in mind, a group of the unfortunate passengers, including Ruth Katz, and Rolf Wallin, set out in quest of salvation.

Blindly groping our way about, we encountered many hardships such as patches of Laine-brambles, that species of thistle discovered by Carl Laine, the great botanist. (Laine is the man who grafted the milkweed plant on that of the strawberry, thus facilitating the production of strawberries and cream.) After many hours of futile search, despair was almost ours when we came upon a sign boldly lettered as follows: "No Camping, per order Dave Rogers, Chief Forester." Soon other signs of advanced civilization met our eyes—cans, bottles, and boxes bearing such information as: Dale's Dandy Donuts, Shaffer's Sardines by appointment to His Majesty Bill Morris IV, Dana Packard's Aromatic Spirits of Ginger Ale. Surely this was encouraging.

As we reached the top of a convenient knoll, the lofty spires of a great city loomed up before us, bringing with them dreams of food and sleep. Quickly we hastened to the outskirts, where a taxi driven by Frank Davis, the famous athlete, was commandeered for transportation to the heart of the city. Several motorcycle officers including "Go-getter" Goldenberg, the pride of the local police force, attempted to halt our speedy progress. Our objective was Hilliard's, a restaurant similar to those known as Child's many years ago; there we saw Larry Henderson and Irma Hamilton "funfully" flapping flapjacks.

Our appetites appeased, we ventured forth to inspect the city, which, by the way, was named Harrytown in honor of Harry F. R. Dolan, its founder, and a philanthropist of note. Mr. Dolan's statue, fashioned from hardest granite, is located in the center of the city; the physical resemblance is remarkable. On the opposite side of the street is a huge barber shop, owned by Humphrey Nolen; Connie Jordan is in charge of the manicure department. At the next corner our attention was drawn to a blind beggar, monotonously sawing on a battered fiddle; upon closer inspection he proved to be Herman Field, the buxom youth of our Latin School days. "Tempus fugit!" as Mr. Derry was wont to quote with characteristic humor. Milton Talent has recently taken over the Kresge chain; a visit to his newest store seemed inviting. More wonders awaited us within. Rozella Senders was religiously producing snatches of the latest song hits on an ancient piano, while Bernice Chute attempted to whistle an obligato. At the perfumery counter Iris White was demonstrating the marvels of a recently discovered cosmetic; "Save the surface and you save all," says Miss White. I noticed Francis Gallivan among the attendant throng, eyes bulging and mouth agape; he was very much interested. While descending to the street floor I met Bill Welsh; the boy has achieved enviable success—he is chief elevator operator of the store. Proceeding on our way, we saw Grace Mills, diminutive as ever, illustrating the advantages of low-heeled shoes in the window of Helen Good's Apparel Shop. By way of diversion we stopped at Anna Wettergreen's Spa for refreshments. Christopher Sykes, regaled in all the splendor of a modern bus boy, relieved us of our wraps—he did not receive a tip. Cas Harris and Sky Benedict soon joined the group at our table. As partners, they have attained success as dealers in junk, in the manipulation of which they gained experience many years ago while they were motorists. Here we spent quite some time in "reminiscing," and arranged to take in a matinee that afternoon.

We went to the Hamilton Theatre, famous for the quality of its productions, and also its immense asbestos curtain decorated with intricate geometrical designs conceived by Draveau Bender. Pete Hayes and Madeline Navien, successors to William Hodge and Jane Cowl respectively, were the stars of the play, a tragedy written by Catherine Boucher. The performance was exceedingly pleasant, except for the ejection of an inebriated ruffian by bouncer Bob Dunn. Between the acts we were warmly greeted by the hostess, Isabel Brooks.

The evening found us dining at the city's best hotel, Millstein Manor; the food was delicious, and the service as rendered by Alice Adams, our waitress, was perfect. Upon the receipt of a two dollar retainer, Alice deigned to tell us that Ordway Southard was the chef. During dinner I also learned that several of the ladies had visited Minerva Abrahamson's Beauty Parlor; there was, however, no visible result,—the Vanity of Human Wishes, as my earstwhile college chum, Sam Johnson, would have said. Dinner over, I glanced over the evening paper, "The Harrytown Review," one of the Gilbert Mottla papers. Barbara Brintnall's column, "Advice to the Lovelorn," was very interesting, not to say instructive. The principal article of the edition, however, was concerning Mary Riese's breach of promise suit against Jack Hughes, debonair chorus-man. G. Hutchinson Foley, international attorney of great note, appeared for Miss Riese. Judge William Tierney has expressed no opinion as yet. Margaret Sheridan has just completed a three year hike around the world; Miss Sheridan is now recognized as one of the world's foremost globe-trotters. Fran Dennis has established a new endurance record for dancing. She danced continuously for eighty-six hours, seventeen minutes, and eight seconds. After the first fifty hours, Fred Hoffman, her dancing partner, collapsed, and was taken to the relief hospital. Since newspapers are rather dull, I retired.

Sunday dawned gloriously, presenting a marvelous array of ethereal splendor—an ideal day for church, especially that of Bishop Myles Coates. His address on the idiosyncrasies of the younger generation was inspiring. It so charmed me that Cliff Riley found it necessary to prod me several times with the collection box before I noticed it.

After the service, we were driven to the flying field in Harriet Johnson's private car, happy in expectation of forthcoming events, and thrilled by the renewal of friendships formed in the most wonderful period of our lives.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE CLASS OF 1928

We, the Class of 1928, being in possession of all our faculties, being of sound mind, and being positive that our last days have come, do this day draw up this, our last will and testament, revoking all wills heretofore written, to be placed for probate in the hands of our Executor, after our passing on. We wish the following enumerations

To Our Legal Heirs, The Class of 1929:

If willing to follow out these several stipulations;—first, to have their family name changed to that of our old pioneer name, Senior; secondly, to be willing to live up in every respect to the honor of the before stated family name; thirdly, to inhabit the ancient and venerated Senior Home Rooms for the entirety of their existence as Seniors; fourthly to duly attend every family gathering or Assembly, we do bequeath:—

1. Our priceless library, containing the much sought after censored “Trots,” English Edition rendered from the French, Latin, Spanish and German; a complete list of condensed classical references to “Comus”; Charles Lamb’s popular edition of Shakespeare’s works; one unique list of chemistry equations entirely and correctly balanced; various proven outlines perfect in that they are on “Tariff” and “Growth and Development of Political Parties,” as well as other such outlines continually requested by Miss Dolan.

2. The enviable ability, belonging only to the initiated, of manipulating one certain mangled drinking fountain on the third floor of the Latin building, directly opposite the abode of the French “pedagogues,” Miss Ford.

3. The peculiar audacity of playing jazz, sacrilegious though it be, upon Mr. Whoriskey’s consecrated invalid piano during those few precious fleeting moments before the direful eight-thirty bell resounds.

4. The power of using those omnipotent pupils’ tickets for shopping expeditions and theatre parties, on holidays or Saturdays, with countenances free from all vestiges of embarrassment.

5. The sophisticated and much desired family trait; namely, being able to say “unprepared” in an aloof and preoccupied tone.

6. Several dilapidated “flivvers” to be driven by such as are deemed fit, at present directed through the highways of Cambridge and vicinity by one Casimir Harris, one Grace Mills, and one Schuyler Benedict, in company with the attendant thrills and exhilarations.

7. The inimitable privilege of attending social sessions in Room 77A, during what are commonly supposed periods for study.

To the Class of 1930:

1. Our book of etiquette, entitled “Morals and Manners,” a volume containing much information befitting the actions of those who have entered the ranks of upper classmen.

To the Class of 1931:

1. The superiority decidedly deserved by those who have threaded the devious mazes of their freshman year without bumping into either Mr. Cleveland or Mr. Bramhall, and without writing more than five million sentences of penance for Miss Haggerty.

To the Class of 1932:

Our discarded or unused Scholars Companions, pink thermos bottles, and tin lunch boxes, as equipment of various Boston bags, necessary and characteristic equipage of those who enter the portals of higher learning.

To the Faculty as a Whole:

The ever-to-be-cherished memory of our escapades and misdemeanors, as well as that of our unexcelled brilliancy.

To the World at Large:

An inexhaustible appreciation of the old traditions of the school, which we have scrupulously endeavored to carry on.

We, the undersigned, do thus bequeath our worldly estate, to be disposed of as above designated.

Class of 1928.

Signed We.

LIBERTY PRIZE SPEAKING CONTEST

ON the twenty-fourth of April, the Liberty Prize Speaking Contest took place in the hall of the Latin School. The entire performance was extraordinarily well done, and the enthusiasm among the members of the audience, composed of pupils with a liberal sprinkling of parents, was raised to a high pitch. The suspense which each person experienced while waiting for the decisions to be announced was almost as keen as that of the competitors.

Ruth Campbell presented "Mansions" by Hildegarde Flanner, a particularly difficult selection in that it required three distinct character portrayals. Her interpretation was exceedingly fine. We shall never forget stern Aunt Harriet, sweet Lydia, and pitiful Little Joe. The audience voted her first prize for the girls long before the judges appeared to announce her as the winner.

Plato's "Socrates," translated by Benjamin Jowett, was convincingly rendered by George Foley. With magnetic power he held his listeners or rather, transported them to that prison where Socrates was dying so stoically. His voice sympathetically presented to us the calm, collected Socrates, master of men, because he was, first, master of himself. To him went the gold medal for the boys.

Mention must be made of the other participants whose splendid work deserves commendation. Each did just about all that was possible with his selection, uniting individuality of theme with personality of delivery. This was all a result of the capable and intensive tutelage of Miss Hartigan assisted by Miss Ford.

The pleasing programme was varied by the participation of the Orchestra under Mr. Whoriskey. Herman Field played an intricate violin selection "The Old Refrain." Then he and Frances Overlock played "Andante" together, with Evelyn MacLeod at the piano. Altogether it was a very diverting evening.

The programme was as follows:

LANCLOET AND ELAINE
 (pardon me, Alfred Lord)
 AN IDEAL IN TWO ACTS

ACT I
 SCENE I

ASTOLAT TURNPIKE WITH ASTOLAT ROADHOUSE IN DISTANCE.

Enter Sir Lancelot, on a steamroller, singing "Thou Swell."

SIR LANC.: An I could win yon impending race tomorrow, 'twould make all things beauteous. I am so nervous I could "shuck whortle berries." (Ad lib. to steamroller.)

Enter Sir Lavaine, Sir Torre, and Elaine, Calla Lily of Astolat and leading lady of "Whoops, My Dear," in a new Ford going 65 per hour. There is a collision.

SIR LANC: _____ (supply to suit needs)

SIR LAV.: {

SIR TORRE: { _____ (supply to suit needs)

ELAINE: {

SIR LANC.: Dost not know how to manipulate thy machine?

SIR LAV.: Hoot mon, why dost thou keep thy contraption in the middle of the road?

SIR TORRE: For the paltry half of a ticket stub to my sister's masque would I split thy pate.

ELAINE: Road-hog! An I could set thee up and strike thee down, methinks 'twould please me.

SIR LANC.: Out upon ye! Out, I say. Must needs barge along the road at such a rate of gasoline consumption?

ELAINE: Hadst thou known the cause of our hurry, thou wouldst have cleared the way. We hasten to Camelot to procure lodging. We are to see the race tomorrow.

SIR LANC.: Oh woe is me! Would that I had known! I myself, am a contestant in yon race, but I fear my Guinevere is sadly damaged.

ELAINE: Thou poor dear! Pray let us repair the damage.

Elaine takes out her purse.

SIR LANC.: Hence sordid finance!

ELAINE: Nay sir, 'tis but a trifle—but thy name?

SIR LANC.: That I cannot divulge, as I travel incognito, but tomorrow ye shall know me by my number which is four and fifty.

ELAINE: Of a certe, fair sir, shall I lay my wages upon thee.

SIR LANC.: Thy magnanimity is overpowering.

ELAINE: I would do it again for thee, but haste I must and haste I will. See thee tomorrow.

SIR LAV.: I withdraw all unkind words, phrases and clauses of disparagement.

SIR TORRE: Ditto! Have a Camelot.

SIR LANC.: Thanks! I'd walk a mile for a Camelot.

Exeunt singing "What does it matter?"

SCENE II

THE LIDO-VENICE IN CAMELOT.

Scene opens with Sir Modred and Vivien, the dizzy blonde, sitting at a table drinking potassium cyanide and smoking Italian stogies.

SIR MOD.: Whoops!

VIV.: Whoops!

SIR MOD.: An Sir Lancelot loses tomorrow's race, we are saved from bankruptcy.

VIV.: Whoops!

SIR MOD.: 'S'nough! Must needs conceive a plan to destroy the object of our worries.

VIV.: Yea verily, but in what manner?

Enter Winnie the Pook unnoticed.

W. P.: Hum, yon pair looks like trouble. I had better drop an eave.

ACT II

SCENE I

THE CAMELOT STADIUM

Enter Sir Torre, Sir Lavaine and Elaine, all wearing Lancelot arm-bands.

Enter also various candy venders.

C. V.: Will ye have peanuts, popcorn, chewing-gum and milk chocolate?

SIR TORRE: Avaunt knave!

ELAINE: Nay, kind brother, do but buy some Life-savers.

Enter Winnie the Pook in a hurry.

W. P.: The highest kind of felony is on foot!

SIR LAV.:

SIR TORRE: } What say you? Felony?

ELAINE:

W. P.: Fair lady, the Modred gang, from the Lido-Venice, mean to blow up number four and fifty.

SIR LAV.: Odds Bodkins!

SIR TORRE: Shiver my timbers! (Sir Torre graduated from Annapolis.)

ELAINE: We shalt be bankrupt if he loseth.

SIR LAV.: We will foil the traitors.

SCENE II

SIR LANCELOT'S STEAMROLLER SHED.

Launcelot is polishing the steamroller. Enter Sir Lavaine, Sir Torre, Elaine, and Winnie the Pook.

SIR LAV.: Thou art in grave danger.

SIR LAUN.: Not me?

W. P.: Uh huh!

ELAINE: We have come to save thee.

SIR LAUN.: Thou clever!

SIR LAV.: We shall hide, and when the gang comes, we shall hold them up.

W. P.: Wouldst condescend to let me play?

SIR LAV.: Yea verily, O faithful one.

(They hide in steamroller).

Enter gang with Sir Modred and Vivien.

SIR MOD.: Hands up, my fine Sir Lancelot! We have come to blow up thy Guinevere.

SIR LAUN.: Stay, foul knave! Hands off, felon!

W. P.: (Coming from steamroller) Hands off yourself!

SIR MOD.: -----! -----! You Harold Ramorez!

SIR TORRE: I shall get Scotland Yard.

(Exit.)

W. P.: (To Sir Modred) Now will you play with fire arms again?

SIR MOD.: _____ (supply curses)

Enter Sir Torre with Scotland Yard.

S. Y.: Ah, hah, Sir Modred!

VIV.: Ah hah, yourself!

SIR MOD.: (To Sir Laun.) Well, I'll get even with you.

W. P.: Well, Sir Modred, thou art no boy scout or thou wouldest have seen that we held ye up with bananas.

SIR MOD.: Curse your ingenuity.

(Exit Scotland Yard, Sir Modred, and Vivien, looking bankrupt, and gang.)

SCENE III

AFTER THE RACE, AT THE RITZ-CAMELOT.

Sir Lavaine, Sir Torre, and Elaine, and Sir Launcelot are grouped around table drinking coco-cola.

SIR TORRE: Whoops! Hic!

SIR LAV.: Shwonnerful!

ELAINE: (to Sir Laun.) Wouldst kiss my hand?

SIR LAUN.: I love another and cannot undertake a breach of promise suit.

ELAINE: Ah, my heart is breaking!

SIR LAUN.: My sorrow is extreme, but I cannot help thee.

(Exit, singing "Bye, Bye, Pretty Baby.")

ELAINE: Oh, woe is me!

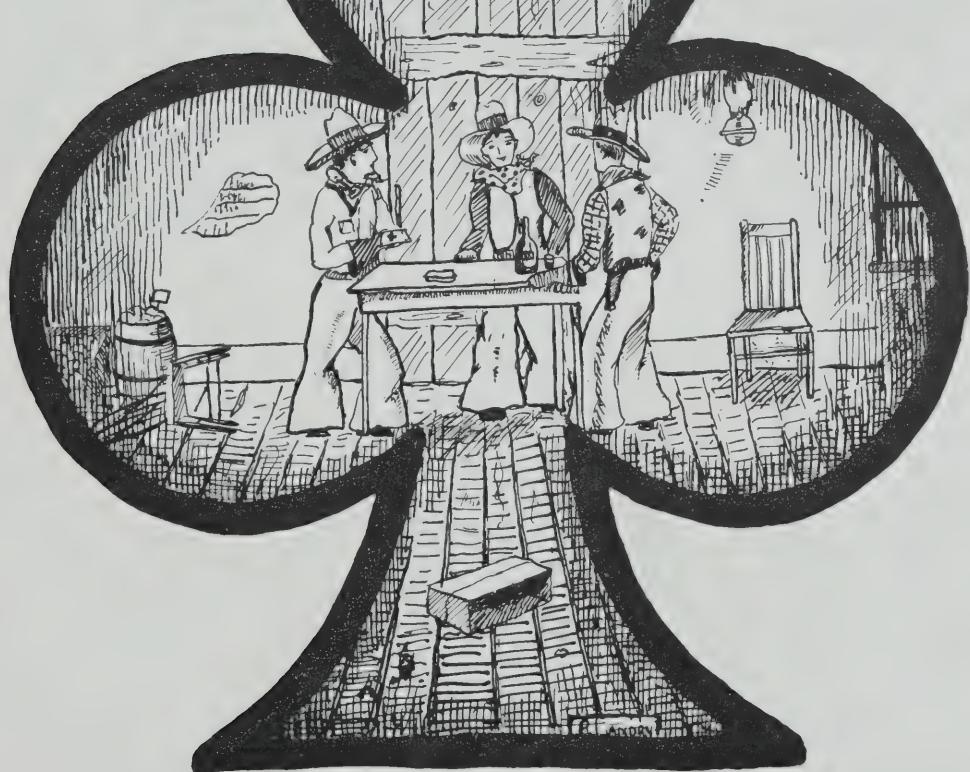

(Throws herself out of the window.)

SIR LAV.: —

SIR TORRE: — Whoops!

DEBATING

“AMID the clashing of intellects and the booming of the big oratorical guns” our class began its debating career in 1925 by defeating the sophomores in the first of a series of three debates. However, the truth will out. We lost the next two contests and with them the Underclass Championship. Our team was composed of Charles McLaughlin, Milton Talent, John Hughes, and George Foley. George Foley was rebuttalist in all three debates and was awarded an Interclass Debating Medal.

The following year we vindicated ourselves by winning the Underclass Championship. Our representatives were Margaret Lewis, Milton Talent, George Foley, and John Hughes. Talent, Hughes, and Foley divided the rebuttalist honors. Medals were awarded to George Foley and Milton Talent, while John Hughes received a book for honorable mention. In the spring Margaret Lewis furnished a surprise by winning a Durrell Cup. George Foley was our representative in the Debating Council in 1925-26.

In our Junior Year we tasted sweet revenge by whipping the Seniors, who had defeated us when we were lowly freshmen. By this victory we became champions of the school. John Hughes, Margaret Lewis, and George Foley, our rebuttalist, accomplished the task. Margaret Lewis and George Foley were respectively vice-president and secretary of the Debating Club which supplanted the Council.

On March 18 our school team overwhelmingly defeated the Everett Debating Team on the question of the Cancellation of Allied War Debts. George Foley was a member of this team and John Hughes was alternate. Late in May the annual Durrell Cup Debate was held in the school hall. Two of the four speakers were Juniors. George Foley received a silver cup for being chosen one of the two best speakers of the evening and John Hughes had his name inscribed on the big cup as a member of the winning side. At the end of the season George Foley was awarded a Cicero Medal for Interscholastic Debating.

KLAWHOWJAH BJUSTOFE CLUB

No organization really succeeds unless it changes to fit the current demand. Thus the K. B. Club has grown from a small group of girls interested in debating to a club of twenty-one upper classmen who have joined in the interests of charity and of society. In all their undertakings they are guided by the counsel of their faculty advisers, Miss Hartigan and Miss McElroy.

In the cause of charity several bridge parties have been given. As a variation from the usual party, late in November the organization ran an elaborate evening bridge at the Commander Hotel. That was so successful that it eliminated the need of the many small ones held in previous years. The proceeds from these affairs for the last two or three years have been used to send tubercular girls to fresh air camps. Besides this, at Thanksgiving and at Christmas complete holiday dinners were donated to needy families.

Other activities included a dance at Woodland Country Club and various initiations and social meetings; a blow-out is planned for the climax for the year. When we senior girls leave this year we go with the feeling that we have helped the already flourishing club to greater prosperity.

This year's officers who have been so very efficient in directing our interests were: Pres. Isabel Brooks; Treas. Margaret Sheridan; Sec'y. Helen Good.

CHESS TEAM

THE chess team has finished another season victoriously. It won every match in which it was engaged. The first match with Boston Latin School was an even struggle to the very last moments. The score was 2-2, and the two games would decide the issue (in chess matches six games are usually played) were about even, up to the last moves. At length after several hours of play, the two Cambridge players won their games, thus giving Cambridge a 4-2 victory. In the next match Rindge was crushed by a score of 6-0. After Rindge, Somerville twice fell victim to our team. In the first match Cambridge won 5-1; and in the second, it managed to retrieve the lost game so that our team won 6-0.

Goldman, Laine, and Wantman won every game they played. MacKechnie, another player, was elected captain for next year's team to which all the present members except Benedict and Laine will return.

May the next year's team have every success!

THE Home Economics Club is one of the School societies which is not only the creator of much fun, but whose instructive value is inestimable. The practical experience which the girls receive will be of extraordinary value about ten years from now when certain young brides are preparing to entertain guests in such a way as to display adequately their beautiful new china, silver, and glass ware.

Under the guidance of Miss Harrington, the divers activities of the year have successfully taken place. Several times the girls have, in a group, attended some theater in Boston. They have presided as hostesses in newly built and newly furnished homes which were on exhibition. A useful demonstration on canning was given, early in the year, in the school kitchen.

The girls have conceived a friendly affection for Miss Harrington, who has proved so interesting, so helpful and so charming a faculty adviser.

THE REVIEW

WE are justly proud of our "Review" this year, for it has reached an extraordinarily high standard for a paper of its kind. This is an opinion coming forth not only from ourselves but also from the criticisms of those well qualified to judge.

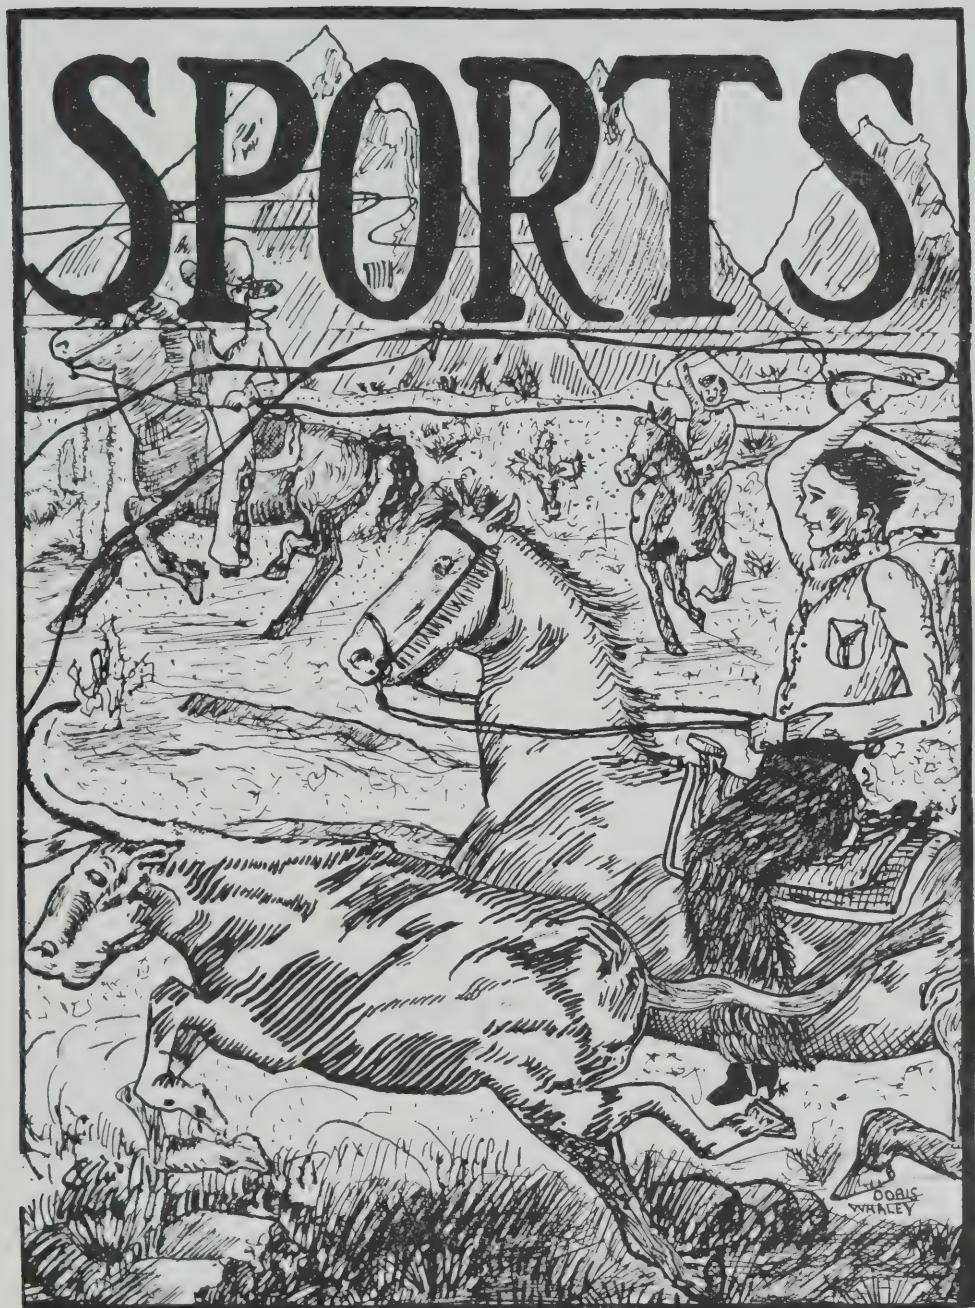

It has been the aim of Herman Field, our editor, to make the literary material a bit better than mediocre. And he certainly has succeeded. A new feature which has appeared this year through his efforts to improve the paper is an interest in art. This increase of the artistic has been displayed in different attractive cover designs; and in the various cuts of famous works of art, of architectural masterpieces of sculpture, and of photography, some of which have appeared in each issue. Complementary to the cuts were explanatory editorials of very singular interest, written by our editor.

This year we have been a member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, to a convention of which society we sent our editor. The instructive and useful advice and information which he there attained has been of no small value in aiding us to reach that standard which we had set ourselves.

Our first vote of thanks goes to Miss Hardy, for she is just as essential to the success of the "Review" as is good literary material, a faithful staff, and zealous editor all taken together.

Next we wish to acknowledge the tremendous amount of work Sophie Fremerman has done and the time she has given in typing our copy for us.

The entire staff which has successfully carried on the good work of publishing the "Review," the organ by which the many parts of our large school are kept in touch with one another, wish all good luck to the members of future staffs.

FOOTBALL

IN 1927, for the first time in the history of the school, our football team won the championship of the Suburban League. Though we had a fairly successful season, we gained the championship only as a result of the ill-luck which Everett High and Newton experienced. Both of these schools were forced to forfeit the championship because they played ineligible men in league games.

Three times since our entrance to the school we have gained the city championship by virtue of our victories over our arch-enemy, Rindge. In '24 we lost 12-0, but in the next three years we were victorious; in '25 by 6-0, in '26 by 16-0, and in '27 by the largest score either team has made since the games were instituted, namely 18-0. This last game was outstanding because of the way our green team fought through to win by so large a score. In the first period, R. Morris got off an 85 yd. punt which paved the way for our first touchdown. We recovered the ball and on fourth down R. Morris threw a forward pass to Davis for the initial score. In the second period Hilliard made a spectacular 35 yd. broken field run which culminated in a touchdown. The third touchdown was scored by McKee after Davis had blocked a Rindge punt.

In our annual Thanksgiving day games with Everett, we tied 0-0 in '24, tied again 0-0 in '25, won 7-0 in '26, but in '27 went down to an ignominious defeat 25-0 at the hands of the most powerful aggregation in the state. In this game we managed to hold Everett to a close score in the first half, but in the second half they unloosed their famed forward-passing game and ran the score up to 25-0.

Captain Harlow was ineligible prior to the Lawrence game, Popoli was elected acting Captain. After the Everett game Bob Morris was elected to captain next year's team.

The outstanding players on this year's team were: Davis, the best lineman

HOCKEY

THIS year, for the ninth successive season, the Cambridge Latin School hockey team reached the finals in the league championship. During our four years in school, we have had fine teams. In 1925, the team won nine games, tied two, and lost four. In 1926, we finished in a tie with Newton and Melrose for the championship. Last year we finished in first place, but during the Round-Robins Series we were defeated by Melrose and therefore relegated to second place.

This year the team was defeated in the semi-finals by the Melrose High School team 6-0. Coach MacDonald deserves much credit for the manner in which he molded from his inexperienced material such a smooth-working and efficient team. From last year's star sextet the only veterans remaining were Captain Kerr, Harlow, and Foley.

Captain Kerr was a bulwark of defense against enemy attacks and was the possessor of the happy faculty of being in the right place at the proper time. That Harlow, who was unanimously elected captain of next year's team, was one of the best forwards in scholastic circles is shown by the fact that he has been an all-scholastic choice for the past three years. If Foley had not been filling the nets in his best manner all season, it is quite probable that the team would never have reached the semi-finals. Time after time, in game after game, Dan stopped, in a seemingly impossible manner, what would otherwise have been certain goals.

The letter men of the team were Captain Kerr, Captain-elect Harlow, White, Brigham, Curry, Foley, Hogan, Walsh, and Manager Murphy.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Second row; Curtis, Regan, Banovitch, Manager Carrington, Powers, Dalrymple, Carlin, Alberico

CROSS COUNTRY

WHEN we first entered the school, Cross-Country racing had just been introduced at Cambridge High and Latin School, and the teams were being organized. In '24 we won five and lost four meets. In '25 we had a very successful season, for out of seven meets we won six by perfect scores and missed a perfect score in the other by only one point. Last year we won four meets and lost four. Every year has found us coming closer to winning the Harvard Interscholastics. From seventh place in '24, to third place this year is the record of our progress in this respect. This year, though we were handicapped from the start by the loss of Captain Wilson, we got together an unbeatable team and won all of our nine meets.

"Jackie" Hughes, who was elected captain, was 1-2 in every meet in which he ran, except in the Harvard Interscholastic meet when he finished in thirteenth place. Foley and MacIsaac and Porteous were also very consistent runners.

The first seven Latin men to finish in the Rindge race and thereby earn their letters were: Captain Hughes, Foley, Porteous, Squires, MacIsaac, J. Kelleher and Banovitch. The scores of the meets are as follows:

C. H. L. S.	28	Stoneham	29
C. H. L. S.	15	St. John's	65
C. H. L. S.	19	Woburn	35
C. H. L. S.	21	Quincy	34

Second row; Hagan, Harlan, Captain Davis, Katz, Gray, Hilliard, White

BASEBALL

ALL indications point to our having another championship team in baseball this year under the coaching of Mr. MacDonald who has always been famed for his outstanding baseball teams. In our freshman year we won thirteen games from formidable opponents. In '26 we won the Suburban League Championship from the very powerful Everett High School team. Last year we easily won the championship and only lost the state championship to Norwood by two games to one.

This year we should have another outstanding team with the veterans Captain Davis, Harlow and Hilliard aided by the newcomers McFadgen, Katz, Brackett, Kerr, and Hogan.

This year's captain "Ike" Davis is a three sport star, being an All-Scholastic center in football, Captain of Basketball, and Captain of Baseball.

The schedule follows:

April 19	C. H. L. S.	0	Newton (League)	5
" 21	C. H. L. S.	6	Ridge (League)	9

SWIMMING

Front row, left to right; Robbins, Squires, Fitzmaurice, Captain Foley, Lee, O'Connor, M. Cohen, MacKillop, Totten

SWIMMING

DURING our four years in the school our swimming teams have been hampered by a lack of seasoned swimmers. In spite of this handicap we have supported fairly successful teams. This year's team had a rather disastrous season, but came back when it held Rindge to a close meet in the final meet of the season. Though the score at the end was 34-34, Rindge was awarded the meet because she had won the relay race. A rule of the Swimming Association stipulates that in the event of a tied meet, the decision is to be given to the team which wins the relay race.

The only consistent winners on the team were: Squires, who, among other honors, won a second place in the New England championships; Fitzmaurice, consistent winner in the backstroke races, and, last but not least, Captain Foley, who was among the best schoolboy breaststroke swimmers in the state.

Those awarded letters were: Captain Foley, Squires, Callan, MacKillop, Poltarak, Goldenberg, Fitzmaurice, Greene, Navarro, Robbins, O'Connor, Totten, E. Cohen.

The scores of the meets follow:

TRACK

Sitting, left to right; Walsh, Norris, Hines, Captain Barnes, Flax, Tiffany, Swisher, Grass
Standing; Dalrymple, MacIsaac, Powers, O'Connor, Calvin, Barry, Johnson, Alberico.

TRACK

FOR the last three or four years the school has not been represented by very successful track teams. This deplorable state of conditions is probably due to the fact that track is the hardest sport in which to earn a letter.

This year Coach Sheehan had an Indoor Track Team which participated in five meets and thus gained much experience that will fortify them in the outdoor meets.

Captain Barnes in the dashes, MacIsaac in the 1000 yd. and half-mile runs, and O'Connor in the longer runs are looked upon as the most likely point scorers on the team.

The scorers of this past indoor season are as follows:

Jan. 26—C. H. L. S.....	39	Browne and Nichols.....	24
Feb. 2—C. H. L. S.....	23	Somerville.....	40
“ 9—C. H. L. S.....	25½	B. C. High.....	42½

BASKETBALL

Second row: Manager Hyde, Vominsky, Pacheco, Johnson, Hilliard, Husbands, Coach Kozlowsky
Back row: Kilfoyle, Cohen, Leshane, Mahaney, Carrington, Rhynne, Lee

BASKETBALL

THOUGH our basketball teams have been officially recognized by the school authorities for only the past two years, they have rapidly forged to the front in interscholastic circles. Last year our team enjoyed a fairly successful season, but this year its season was highly successful and the teams made a specialty of defeating hitherto unbeaten teams.

We defeated Rindge in a best two-out-of-three game series for the championship of the city. The scores of 14-15, 33-23, and 39-21, show our margin of superiority over Rindge. Both of the last two games were featured by the remarkable shooting of Browning, a newcomer to the team, and by the fine defensive work of both Captain Davis and Matursevitch.

The most spectacular and unexpected victory of the season was gained at the expense of the Everett High School team who suffered no other defeat during the whole season and was by far the best schoolboy aggregation in the state. The 28-21 score, by which we were victorious, indicates our superiority over the powerful Everett quintet.

Frank Davis, captain for the last two years, is the outstanding all-round player in the state. His versatility helped the teams to no small extent, for at different times he played every position on the court. Captain Davis, Browning, Hilliard, Matursevitch, Clancy, Coady, Greene, Katz, and Manager Hyde received letters.

The scores of the season's games were as follows:

Jan.	3—C. H. L. S.	28	Lowell	18
"	11—C. H. L. S.	26	Dedham	25
"	14—C. H. L. S.	29	Tech "31"	15

CREW

DURING the past three years we have supported fairly successful crews in this school. In 1925 we won the city championship but in '26 we lost to Rindge, though that defeat is no disgrace, as in that year Rindge was the state champion. Last year we had a very fine season which was ended by a very surprising two-lengths victory over Rindge.

All indications point toward a very promising season. The crew is under the direction of Captain Mowll and Coach Manning. The shell will be seated as follows: Bow, Reilly; 2, Stone; 3, Foley; 4, Stevenson; 5, O'Leary; 6, Cashin; 7, Captain Mowll; Stroke, Ross; Coxswain, Sweeney.

The schedule as arranged by Manager Nolen is:

May	4	—Harvard 3rd Freshmen
	“ 12	—Browne and Nichols
	“ 19	—Harvard Regatta
	“ 26	—Springfield at Springfield
June	2	—Rindge
	“ 9	—Lynn at Lynn

TENNIS

*Seated, left to right; Draveau Bender, Mr. Donovan, Coach, John Hughes

TENNIS

LAST year, for the first time in the history of the school, we were represented by an officially recognized tennis team. The new team had a very successful season scoring victories in eight matches, and experiencing only three defeats.

This year's team is composed of the veterans, Captain Bender, Hughes, Dunn and the newcomers, Sykes and Jackson. This team is exceptionally well-balanced and should have a very successful season.

Matches will be played with several teams which have joined to form the Boston Interscholastic Tennis League besides with several other outside teams.

Matches will be played with the following schools:

Brookline (L.)	St. John
Somerville (L.)	Quincy (L.)
Newton (L.)	Everett (L.)
Lynn (L.)	Malden (L.)
Salem (L.)	Medford (L.)

Sitting, left to right: Eleanor Shaffer, President, Winifred Shaffer, Vice-Pres. and Treas., Miss Brown, Gertrude Burns, Marjorie Lynch, Sec'y.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE object of the Girls' Athletic Association is to promote the highest form of physical education, and to develop a co-operative spirit of interest and enthusiasm in all its branches. Ever have the officers sought to attain this object under increasing difficulties. Today, the Association embraces nearly two hundred girls of the two lower classes. The activities of the year have been carried on most successfully by an excellent committee made up of a wise representation of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. That the success of the year is due, for the most part, to Miss Brown, the Faculty Adviser, is readily understood when it is known that under her guidance the officers have carried out their projects.

There are three events every year. This year the Freshman Party took the form of an "undersea" party. During the course of the affair, individual talent was displayed and greatly appreciated. Everyone enjoyed herself as is usually the case at any of the Association's parties. The second annual event is the Girl Dance to which half of the members come dressed as boys, escorting the other half, the girls. This dance is, perhaps, enjoyed more than any other function during the year. The final event of the year is the picnic held at Miss Brown's home at Kendall Green. On this occasion the new officers for the coming year are installed. Interposed among these three affairs are basketball, hiking, swimming, and baseball, all of which go to make up the social and athletic year of the Association.

SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

THIS year the Senior Basketball Team reached the goal towards which it had been striving for four years, that of the class championship. Looking down from that elevated position, it can feel that its victories have been justly earned, for rivalry and opposition, though friendly, has been strong. All the games played were hotly contested, but the victories were complete. The most serious opposition came from the Juniors and many times the desired goal seemed far away, but although 1929 played nobly, the Seniors came out on top. All the members of the Team received silver basketballs, the insignia and seal of victory.

There were few games played with outside schools, but those played also resulted in victory.

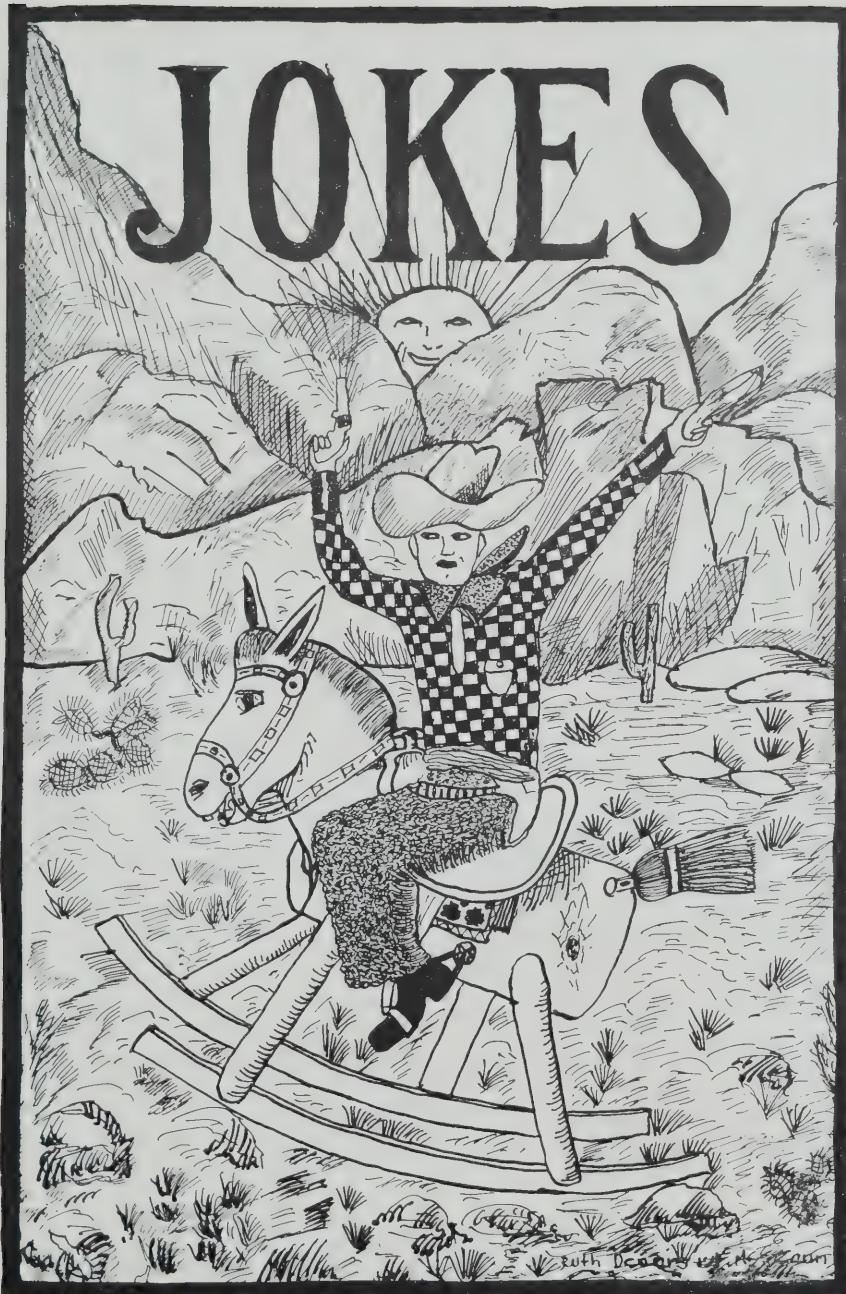

Through all its four years the Team has been remarkable especially for the excellent spirit of good sportsmanship that has been displayed. The game has ever been played for the "game's sake."

JOKES

"You say this man has a grudge against you?" demanded the judge.

"Yes, Your Honor," replied Bill the Beggar. "When I was blind, I saw him steal some pennies from my cup, and when I was a cripple, I had to chase him down the street for taking my box of pencils."

"Anything else?"

"Yes, Your Honor, once when I was deaf and dumb, he shot off a firecracker behind me."

The Boss: "Young man, have you ever been to college?"

Applicant for position (in blushing apology): "Er, well, yes sir, I have—but it was only a small college, and I stayed only three months."

Algebra Student: "I've added those figures up ten times."

Teacher: "Good! Fine!"

A. S.: "And here's the ten answers."

Read in one of daily newspapers: "Thursday I lost a gold watch which I valued very highly. Immediately I inserted an ad in your lost and found column, and waited. Yesterday, I went home and found the watch in the pocket of another suit. Thank you very much."

"What good is a college degree?"

"Why, with a degree and a million dollars, a man is a success."

Passenger in elevator: "Fourth floor, please."

Operator: "Here we are, son."

Passenger: "How dare you call me son; you're not my father."

Operator: "Well, I brought you up, didn't I?"

"Now my dears," said Mother Raccoon to her children, "you must always watch your step because you have the skin the college boys love to touch."

Father: "Whenever you come down to the office it's only to ask for money—I'm glad I haven't any other son like you."

Son: "Certainly, Dad, so am I."

"Have you any last requests?" asked the executioner.

"Well really," retorted the golf enthusiast from the scaffold, "would you mind if I take a few practice swings?"

Burglar to occupant of house: "Say, the morning papers say that when I was here last night I overlooked a diamond necklace. Hand it over."

Man: "Say boy, when does the last train for Albany leave?"

Station Boy: "Huh, you should live so long."

Foreman: "What you doin' 'ere? I gave you the sack on Saturday."

Laborer: "Yes, but don't never do it agin. My missus carried on somethin' awful!"

Homely Teacher: "Johnnie, if you had six apples and I asked you for three, how many would you have left?"

Johnnie: "Six."

Senior: "What's the time?"

Junior: "Dunno."

Senior: "Isn't your watch running?"

Junior: "Sure, but it's an hour slow."

Sophomore: "Is it raining outside, sir?"

Senior: "Forsooth, youngster, did you ever see it raining inside?"

Mary: "Let's go on a hiking trip."

Marie: "No, motoring makes me sick."

"Hi, Jim, going out for baseball this spring?"

"Naw, I'm going out for flunking."

"That makes a difference," said Willie, as he snipped off the left ear of one of the twins.

Friendly Man: "Have you seen 'The Thief of Bagdad'?"

Cop: "Not yet, but we have inside information where he's hidin', and we'll have him in custody before the week's out."

Kindly Lady: "Are you mama's or papa's baby?"

Modern Freddy: "The judge hasn't decided yet. I'm in litigation."

"You're getting corpulent, Bill."

"Corpulent, H—l! I'm a lieutenant already."

Senior: "Can you play the piano?"

Freshman: "I don't know—I never tried."

Graduate: "Will you pay me what I'm worth?"

Employer: "I'll do better than that; I'll give you a small salary to start with."

DEBATING—Continued from page 154

We come to our Senior Year. Our sole activity for this season was the Andover Debate held on May 11. John Hughes was the only senior on the team which met Andover.

The din of the conflict slowly fades from our ears. The booming of the guns dies away. Our class has completed its triumphant forensic career.

WE have reached the heights of our ambitions and are satisfied. The riches which we sought are ours, valued so much the more highly because of the price of their attainment. In divers pursuits, each aptly fitted to the individual, we have found our joy and our contentment. Yet there is a poignant sorrow hidden beneath the general rejoicing, for we now behold ourselves divided, scattered amongst various interests, intent upon different purposes. Soon we no longer will be the united family which we were on that arduous journey over winding trails, steep mountain passes, and arid desert wastes. Still we have the consolation of knowing that never can our spirits be sundered, for our hearts have been bound together by insoluble ties of love born of a common undertaking, a common aim, a common peril.

I wish to call the personal attention of the students, faculty, alumni, and friends of Cambridge High and Latin School to the names of the merchants and manufacturers who are using this book as an advertising medium, and who have cordially done their share in making this Year Book a success.
